Chicago.—There have been a number of items from the South and Southwest relating to damage done the corn crop by heavy rains. This condition seems to be sprouding. It is an open question as to whether sufficient damage has been done to materially cut into the entire crop, but it may safely be argued that the present holding attitude of the farmers will be intensified which tact simply increases the danger on the short side of the Decomber delivery.

In the event of any decline in the December it seems to be an opportune time for accepting the investment side.

WELLS THINKS WEATHER MAN DID HIM ILL TURN REDFIELD RETIRES AS

Dave Wells was as mad as a wet hen Friday night and it was because Memphis went wet that Dave was mad. He and a number of his friends had arranged for a big demonstration for Rowlett Paine and the Citizens' league ticket in the Ninth ward, but when th rain peured and the floods descended rain poured and the floods descended for an hour it was evident that there would be nothing doing.

From this brief account, the reader may infer that 'Squire Wells, who at one time thought of running for city commissioner himself, is out for the Citizens' league ticket. That inference is correct. And when Dave is for anything, he's for it, as his friends have reason to know. He has no enemies, so he does not care a hoot who knows it.

There has been talk around the city.

It.

There has been talk around the city hall corridors that Dave's job as city paymaster and purchasing agent is in danger of slipping out from under him. If Mayor Monteverde and Commissioner if Mayor Monteverde and Commissioner Quinn can get one other commissioner to vote with them. On that point Dave does not seem to be worrying either.

"Darn the luck," said Dave Saturday, "here I've worked like a dog for that meeting, and it would have been a humdinger if I do say it and that darned rain comes along. Well, we'll meet can on election day anywag and the Williams ticket won't have the 1,000 majority in the old Ninth they have heen claiming either, you can bet anything you like on that."

Thos. F. Stratton Attempts to Control Votes of Employes for Williams.

Thomas F. Stratton, elected recently as a member of the artesian water commission, is trying to play politics and through his official connection with the department, to influence the votes of employes for J. J. Williams for mayor, Williams being backed, as everyone knows, by the full force at Mayor Monteverde's command. This is the first time in years, certainly the first time since J. J. Williams last term as mayor, that such an attempt has been made by any member of the water commission.

An official notice posted in the offices forbids any discussion of politics in the department offices and notifies all employes that their tenure of office all employes that their tenure of office does not depend upon politics, but upon efficient service.

The department for many years has been kept out of politics, and was not permitted to become a part of any political machine.

During the past week, however. Thomas F. Stratton has attempted through his official connection with the department to influence the vote of a number of the employes for the Williams ticket. Mr. Stratton was placed on the commission by Mayor Monteverde, succeeding James S. Davant who had been chairman of the board for years.

had been chairman of the board syenrs.

Mr. Stratton even went so far as to approach one of the officials of the department with a suggestion that an increase in sainty which had been spoken of, would depend upon the vote of the official in the coming election. He was told that he might be able to decide the salary question, but that he could not influence the efficial vote one way or the other, now or at any other time.
